In 1992, Venerable Huili embarked on a journey to Africa. He established the first "Amitofo Care Center" (ACC) in Malawi during 2004, dedicated to caring for African vulnerable children and where more than 85% of world's HIV-positive children live. Today, many years later, the founder continues with his compassionate practice of Buddhism in Africa traveling to all corners of Africa, and helping countless precious young lives. Nowadays, he is known as the "African monk" or "Monk dad" in the eyes of thousands of children.

Countryside work for expressions of gratitude

Contributor: ACC Namibia

Thank you to the little sister of the Daliiao chef for leading the colleagues, for planting sweet potato stalks in mid-December last year. After their consistent watering, we now have a fruitful harvest. Baskets of sweet potatoes, big and small, filled the stomachs of adults and children, each of which was filled with joy and satisfaction.

Thank you for the gift of Mother Earth, thank you for sunshine, water, air, sweet potatoes, the sweet potatoes leaves and thank you to the hard-working colleagues. At present, the children of G5 are writing their gratitude homework and what they have written is rather touching. I will share what they have written when I have the time.
